ELECTION SUMMARY

Premier Dennis Fentie announced on September 8, 2006 that a general election was to take place on Tuesday, October 10, 2006. The Elections Act requires polling day to take place on a Monday. There is, however, provision for polling day to be on the following Tuesday, if the immediately preceding Monday is a statutory holiday within the meaning of the Interpretation Act. Thanksgiving Day was October 9.

The Chief Electoral Officer, Patrick L. Michael, issued the writs for the general election to the returning officers on Friday, September 8, 2006.

There were 16,101 electors on the preliminary lists after enumeration. At revision on September 26 and 27, 2,155 names were added to the lists. Special revision took place on October 6 and 448 electors were present at returning offices to be added to the lists. The official lists of electors for the general election contained 18,681 names.

Nomination day was Monday, September 18. Fifty-eight candidates filed nomination papers. Each of the three registered political parties endorsed candidates in 18 electoral districts. There were also four independent candidates at this election.

Advance polls took place on Sunday and Monday, October 1 and 2, and 1,495 electors voted.

Polling day was Tuesday, October 10 and 11,304 electors voted in person. In addition, 812 electors voted by proxy, special ballot and, in one electoral district, by mail-in. Official results were certified for 18 electoral districts on October 11.

Returning officers in two electoral districts applied for judicial recounts. There was no change to the results for either the Electoral District of Porter Creek South or the Electoral District of McIntyre-Takhini at these recounts, which were conducted by a judge of the Supreme Court on October 13. The candidates with the most ballots in these electoral districts were declared elected on that date. In the remaining 16 electoral districts, the candidates with the greatest number of ballots were declared elected on October 16.

As required by subsection 117(2) of the Act, 52 candidates received refunds of their nomination deposits.

The chief electoral officer is investigating complaints concerning the election and will be reporting to the members of the Legislative Assembly on the process of enumeration, the addition of names at revision, special ballots and proxy voting, as well as conducting a general review of other election procedures, before the next general election.
